

The distance a car travels during a driver's reaction time, before the breaks are applied is called the