

The distance a car travels before stopping, once the breaks have been applied is called the