

Which type of radiation can be used to transmit information over very long distances?