

The size and shape of an object has no effect on the rate of energy transfer by heating.