

The heavier the object, the bigger the force needed to maintain its circular motion.