

In a hydroelectric power station, moving water is used to drive the which in turn drive the generators.