

Particles in longitudinal waves move up and down relative to the direction of the wave.