For electricity to flow, there must be a continuous loop. This loop is called a